

- x Thirty years after two friends and former students lost their lives on their way home for Reading Week, alumni Jennifer Mondoux (ArtSci'94) found a way to keep their memory alive. Working with Advancement and with approval of the girls' families, she created the Valerie Feltham and Tammy Bekkers Memorial Bursary which will support students studying Political Studies or French.

Read the story Keeping their memories alive

- x The annual Art of Research photo contest added a new video category to its five photo groups. Open to Queen's faculty, staff, students, and alumni the theme is looking at research through lens of the United Nations' Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs).

Read the story Bringing research into focus