

In October we hosted a free lunchtime Front Lawn concert with local musician, Emilie Steele. It was a hit with our students and with everyone who passed by

(continued from page 4)

The other thing that the BRC really did for me, was to facilitate a bridge between academia and my drag (see @viEun inci). Being iEited as a speaker to their fireside chat in early 20 method in my research. It's really impressive, and I am grateful, for how the Centre manages to create a sense of care and community... even in times like these.

We want to thank everyone who has donated so generously over this past year. Getting back on our feet for in-person activities this year has been exciting but challenging. With cost of living increases, particularly in food and housing, student need is higher than ever, adding to the stresses of managing academic and personal life. We are delighted that we get to meet many new and returning students who come through our doors every day seeking the various kinds of support we offer.

Donations can be made through our website at or mail a cheque made out to Queen's University (Ban Righ Centre) to:

Queen's University
Gift Services
Old Medical Building
99 University Avenue
Kingston, ON K7L 3N6

Each fall we try to help students with winter clothing. This year, Claude Chapdelaine (ArtSci '64), a long-time supporter of the Centre and its students, offered $30 buy winter clothing for their families.

"When I heard of theh

The Ban Righ Centre is thrilled to welcome Taylor Cenac to the team as Student Advisor and Program Coordinator.

