Interests: My primary fields of interest in sociology relate to the cultivation of consumerism/consumer culture and the ethics associated with advancing technology. In the future, I'm hoping to apply this knowledge in the realm of marketing and entrepreneurship. I'm interested in combining ethics and business to create something that can grow, while remaining sustainable.

Marital Conflicts and Divorce: Exploring the Correlation Between Marital Conflicts, Divorce and Children

Continued.

Since the process of editing genetics will be costly, it will be heavily restricted to those who are financially stable within society (Das et al. 2017: 1349). This will lead to a large gap in communities, countries and throughout the world, and those in developing countries where the difference between rich and poor is a stark (ibid). As this continues, those who are poor will be the only people in the world's population who are sick and have a disability.
